

RESPONDING TO SELF HARM

SUGGESTIONS FOR SCHOOL STAFF

- Check in with yourself and regulate before speaking to a young person about self-harm as it's normal to feel upset, worried and overwhelmed when faced with a young person in distress
- Speak with the young person and invite them to tell you about the self-harm and any problems or worries they have, with awareness that some of these may be safeguarding related
- Remain calm, empathic and non-judgmental and provide an offer to listen. It may take a few invitations to talk before the young person feels safe to share what is going on for them
- Make a plan together with the young person which might include further check-in times, the use of safety planning tools (perhaps in conjunction with safeguarding leads), a referral to other services, and discussion around how information about their safety will need to be shared, for example with parents/carers. Be clear with the young person why you are doing this and give them choices about how you might tell those who need to know
- Inform parents/carers and follow your school safeguarding protocol around next steps which might involve speaking to your local EWMH team for advice
- Speak with your Safeguarding Lead to plan the next steps for support (immediate and longer term) and to ensure you are not dealing with the situation alone
- Stay connected to the young person and their support systems as schools have a great deal to offer young people in providing support and stability during times that are tough. Services and support systems around a child should aim to communicate and work together in the best interests of the young person
- Consider others affected such as friends, siblings or staff who might need their own space to talk about their feelings, include your own needs in this

IF A YOUNG PERSON IS ACTIVELY SUICIDAL

If someone is actively suicidal: If they are clear they want to die, they have a plan and intend to act on that plan immediately, make sure someone stays with them at all times – you have time to seek advice but ensure the person is not left alone.

If the young person has already taken an overdose/seriously harmed themselves, call 999.
